Kentucky Windage

(By P. W.)

A lot of us, I am sure, have kept late hours around the television this week watching the Democratic convention in Miami. On Monday night I stayed up until the wee hours because I was wondering how the California delegation matter would be settled. While I am no particular fan of McGovern's, I did feel, after listening to the debate on the question, that the honesty and integrity of the Democratic party was being laid on the line for all to see, and I felt honestly relieved that when the Party was tried, it came up not wanting. To us television viewers who weren't up on the horse-trading in the back rooms in Miami, the California vote was a relatively simple case of deciding what was right and honest, or what was double-talk and dishonest.

To me, it looked like the matter was bigger than McGovern. After all, one could vote to accredit the delegation on Monday, and then turn right around and vote any way they pleased on Wednesday.

This week's convention — what I have seen of it in the time that I had — has been the most common-sense, "earthy-feeling" political convention I have ever watched ... did you get that feeling too?

To begin with, chairman O'Brien has not presided in a rolling, sonorous, pompous voice as have so many of his predecessors; he has been businesslike, matter-of-fact and to the point. I like that.

Then there was the mixture of delegates themselves: long hair, short hair, fat, skinny, black, white, brown and yellow, well dressed or modestly dressed ... but all there to speak their piece and vote their opinions and not to be fooled. And even some of the notorious long-hairs were admitted as observers, instead of being left outside to ferment the crowd.

JOTTINGS from Jo's Notebook

Miami Beach, Tuesday, July 11—

In the exaggerated noise, and glare, and emotion of this large hall, a new type of delegate has produced a new type of convention ... and even a new type of Democratic party; and tomorrow night, on Wednesday, in Miami Beach, there is no question now that this convention will come up with a new type of candidate.

I am awfully glad that I made the effort to come to this convention, in spite of the hesitancy I felt about fulfilling my responsibilities as a state-at-large delegate. I am glad, because I am seeing here a very new kind of politics being born.

And with some sadness I notice — and I pondered as I sat there with the Kentucky delegation until ten minutes to six o'clock Tuesday morning, that the new politics has forever banished the old politics as I learned it in Kentucky.

Oddly enough, the gentleman who was my mentor in the early days of my residence in Kentucky was standing near me, and we had a very fine conversation as we listened to the delegates vote on ousting Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago and his Illinois delegation to the convention.

Senator Clements and I were reminiscing there at the Kentucky stand in this convention hall, about the first convention that I attended as a delegate from Kentucky.

It was in Chicago, in 1952, when a joyful and hopeful Kentucky delegation went to Chicago to nominate its favorite son, Senator Alben Barkley. We lost that fight also, and gave way to the candidacy of Adlai Stevenson in Chicago, as we sat there in the Kentucky delegation, were the old-timers, the real "pros" — something of the immortals of those individuals who made Kentucky politics "the damndest" Kentucky. I could not help but envision the seating, twenty years ago, of Doc Beauchamp, and Lennis McLaughlin, and former-governor Lawrence Wetherby. In their places Senator Clements, and J. R. Miller, and only one or two other old-timers were left in this

HOW TO KEEP COOLER IN THE WATER: "Just pause for a minute under the fresh-water pipe at Willow Plunge swimming pool," says Tony Yates. "Boy, that water is c-o-l-d!" Tony is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Yates of Water Valley, and was enjoying a swim at Fulton's Willow Plunge pool Wednesday afternoon.

"AM I HAVING A GOOD TIME? ... I SURE AM" seems to be the translation of this expression on the face of little Philip Bynum at Fulton's Willow Plunge pool Wednesday afternoon. Philip is the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bynum of Martin, and behind him is his attentive baby-sitter, Linda Wilson. During these hot days, the pool is a welcome haven for young and old.

Artist Clyde Lawter To Exhibit Works At Festival

Clyde Lawter, a landscape and still-life artist from Paducah, Kentucky, is "... recognized as one of the truly outstanding American artists." Lawter's acrylic and oil paintings are exhibited in almost all of the continental United States, while at least thirty of them are now hanging in European countries such as Holland, France, Ireland, Germany, and Belgium.

Lawter's famous works will be on display in Fulton, Kentucky from August 17 to August 19 at the Public Library as a part of the tenth annual International Banana Festival that will be staged in the twin cities of Fulton, Kentucky—South Fulton, Tennessee for three days.

Honored by having several one-man shows, Lawter was selected as one of Kentucky's outstanding artists in 1967. After this award, one of his paintings was displayed in the state capitol in Frankfort.

Working with acrylics and oils, Lawter's inspiration for his compositions is natural beauty in landscapes, still-life, portraits or whatever his subject.

A native of Enid, Oklahoma, he lived in Cedar Rapids, Iowa for ten years before moving to West Kentucky in 1963. He is married and has four daughters. Lawter received his formal education at Phillips University and Iowa State Teacher's College.

Also, to further his art experience, he studied with prominent American artists including Bill Bregel of Chicago and Maestro Dirk Van Driest of Taos, New Mexico.

In all of Lawter's exhibits across the nation, whether they be in galleries or one-man shows, all work is original. No displays are reproductions, and none shown have been duplicated.

Most paintings on exhibit are for sale; frames are included at the prices marked for each work. Arrangements may be made for purchase for cash or on time payments.

Kidney machine makes Dink Mansfield a very lucky man

By Carol Major

"If it weren't for the Veteran's Administration benefits, I would very possibly not be alive today. Now, at 54, I realize that although I will need the aid of a kidney machine for the rest of my life, I am a fortunate man." These are the words of Dink Mansfield, formerly of Hickman and the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Noah Mansfield.

In 1953 Dink moved to Chicago where he worked various construction jobs. Four years later was Dink's first awareness of his kidney weakness which presented no active complications until December of 1971. At that time he became extremely weak, suffering from chronic nephritis of both kidneys with accompanying severe headaches and high blood pressure.

He was advised by Dr. Lawrence Jones of Union City to make an appointment at the Veteran's Administration Hospital in Hines, Illinois just outside of Chicago where a reliable and renowned staff of kidney specialists was available.

There, he was informed that he must be treated by a kidney machine and that a transplant was a possibility.

During the month of January Dink slowly regained his strength. At the end of the month he underwent a fistula operation which is the tying together of the artery and vein, specifically in his left forearm. This enabled an increase in the flow of the blood, bringing the artery and vein closer to the surface, more visible, and therefore, quite easily located for needle insertion.

On February 15, Dink experienced his initial treatment on the kidney device. During the spring, he continued building his strength and regaining weight and in June his sister, Mrs. Jeneta Keith, of Hickman, flew to Hines to gain three weeks' knowledge and practical experience concerning the operation of the machine.

Dink, Jeneta and several patients were taught to master the machine with the help and guidance of a Home Dialysis Training group from the VA Hospital. Miss Evelyn Henry, Bob McDowell, Mrs. VI and Miss Marg Schermerhorn comprised the team.

The students were taught that, much to the amazement of the general public, the shortage is not of the machines but rather of trained personnel or instructors. The machine itself costs $10,000.00 and mounts with treatments to nearly $20,000.00 for the first year. Each subsequent year costs the patient in the neighborhood of $5,000.00. Those persons who are neither able to afford the treatments nor able to benefit from the Veteran's Administration Hospital are, at present, waiting in long lines and are registered with the state. It is these persons who must be treated in the hospitals and will not be able to have a machine in their home.

Following the course, Dink and Jeneta received certificates of achievement and, on June 24 returned to Hickman with the machine. Dink is now staying with Jeneta and her husband, Floyd Keith, Sr., and their family. Floyd is a self-employed carpenter in Hickman. Jeneta recently gave up her job with the Hickman Garment Co. where she had been employed for several years in order to help her brother. She also teaches the "Irene Rice" Sunday School class at the East Baptist Church.

Miss Marg Schermerhorn came to Hickman, Tuesday, June 27, to supervise Dink's first home operation of the machine. "Everything went perfectly," Jeneta said. Dink explained that "the kidney machine is a wonderful invention which has helped to keep many people alive." He added a sincere note of appreciation to all of the people who sent cards of encouragement during his stay in the hospital.

Dink is able to work light jobs, swim and play ball. He is on a limited intake diet which accounts for 95 per cent of the kidney treatments' success while the mechanical treatments account for only five per cent of the kidney's function.

The machine is supplied with 80 gallons of water and chemical mixture (dialate fluid) which is pumped into a forty gallon tank twice during the eight hour treatment which is administered twice weekly. Without the water, the machine weighs approximately 200 pounds. It is operated on 110 AC and is run by three motors.

During the eight hours, Dink's two gallons of blood are completely pumped out through a line which connects his artery and the machine. It is purified in a filter which is located on the top of the machine and through which the eighty gallons of water flow. The purified blood then reenters the body through a second line which connects his vein to the machine and the operation is completed. Each hour of the treatment, Dink is given a dose of heparin which assures the blood's clotting.

There are several gauges which sound alarm if any phase of the treatment should go amiss: the pump gauge, the bubble detector, the leak detector and the pressure gauge. During the eight hours, Jeneta can work in other parts of her home as a bell rings if a difficulty should arise. Dink is able to sit, lay down, read a book, eat, or do just about anything within the limited distance of the lines. If the electricity should fail, there is an emergency handle provided which, when turned manually, can continue the duty of the machine until the patient is prepared for a postponed treatment.

Dink and Jeneta will travel

Twin Cities' First Bible Reading Marathon To Be Held This Weekend

For the first time in the Twin City area, there will be a Bible Reading Marathon held here Friday and Saturday, July 14 - 15, on the grounds of the new Farmers Exchange Bank in South Fulton.

The continuous 18-hour Bible reading session is sponsored by the South Fulton Baptist Church and the youth of the Twin Cities. It will begin at 6:00 p. m. on Friday and go non-stop until noon the next day.

The Reverend Gerald Stowe, pastor of the South Fulton Baptist Church and president of the Twin Cities Ministerial Alliance, will open the marathon by reading Chapter 1 of Matthew.

Congressman Ed Jones of Tennessee will continue the reading by following the Reverend Stowe and reading Chapter 2.

Other ministers, doctors, businessmen, nurses, civic club members, Sunday School classes, and even Little League Ball Team members will continue the reading until the complete New Testament has been read aloud without stop.

Everyone in all age groups is invited to participate in this relatively new type of witnessing. However, there will be no preaching or denominational comments—just reading of the Bible.

When the reading has been completed from the Good News For Modern Man edition of the New Testament, copies of the edition will be presented to the mayors of the Twin Cities with the signatures of all those who read and the time they participated.

The Bible Reading Marathon was instituted in this central area of the United States last summer when the first one was held in Mayfield, Kentucky. The success of the marathon was so great that there is another one planned for Mayfield in two weeks and similar marathons have since been initiated in several cities in this area.

The sponsors of the Twin City marathon hope to have 1000 New Testaments to give away, and they will distribute them as long as they last.

Refreshments will be served at the all-night marathon.

Everyone is urged to plan to go to the marathon sometime during the 18-hour Bible reading to read—or at least to listen!

Fulton Commission Approves Two Issues In Week's Meetings

In meetings Monday night and Tuesday afternoon, the Fulton City Commission took action on two major city issues. They were (1) approving the Commission's filing for a HUD fund aid and (2) approving specifications for a new police cruiser.

The major portion of Monday night's meeting was devoted to discussing the water improvement program for the city which is expected to cost approximately $750,000. Considering this cost, the Commission voted to contact the federal department of Housing and Urban Development for additional funds.

After City Engineer Jim Huff's presentation of three alternatives, the Commission chose to pursue the third plan which was to combine the City and the Industrial Park into one water improvement project.

After being discussed in Monday night's regular meeting, the police cruiser issue was voted upon in a special meeting held Tuesday afternoon.

The Commission voted to approve the specifications for a new police cruiser and has agreed to accept bids.

FHS Four-Class Reunion This Friday And Saturday

A combined four-class reunion of the Fulton High School classes of 1946-47-48-49 will be held this Friday and Saturday, July 14-15, at the Holiday Inn in Fulton.

The activities begin at 12 noon on Friday when the class members register at the Holiday Inn. That afternoon will be devoted to reminiscing with old school mates.

Friday night, a Laua will be held at the Holiday Inn. On Saturday morning, individual Dutch Treat Breakfasts will be held for all four classes.

All classes will rejoin on Saturday night for dinner at the Holiday Inn with W. L. Holland, the guest speaker.

Following the meal, a dance will be held with Jack Staulcup and his orchestra providing the music.

Prices for the events are as follows: $7.50 per person for the Laua; Saturday night's dinner $5.00 per person and $5.00 per person for the dance; the two days activities including all events, thirty-five dollars per couple.

Several out-of-town guests plan to attend the reunion that is held every five years.

Fulton Receives State Grant

Housing Urban Development area director Virgil Kinnaird of Louisville has advised Congressman Frank A. Stubblefield of a $349,600 grant for the Fulton Urban Renewal Agency.

These Federal Funds should complete all relocation expenses by the Urban Renewal Agency.

James O. Martin, executive director of the Urban Renewal Agency, Fulton, may be contacted for details.

Langford Receives Promotion

Larry D. Langford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dee Langford, Route 2, Hickman, Kentucky, has been promoted to sergeant in the U. S. Air Force.

Sergeant Langford, a personnel specialist at Ent AFB, Colorado, is assigned to a unit of the Aerospace Defense Command which protects the U. S. against hostile aircraft and missiles.

The sergeant, a 1965 graduate of Fulton County High School, received a B. S. degree in business in 1970 from Murray State University.

His wife, Letha, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Exum of 107 Second Street, Fulton, Kentucky.

Kentucky delegation. We looked around us at the new type of delegate that henceforth, it appears, will make the decisions in the Democratic process.

To add to the gloom that we feel here in the Kentucky delegation, because of the announcement that Senator Muskie was withdrawing from the race — we don't even have good weather to help cheer us up.

At this moment it is raining hard in Ft. Lauderdale; there is no sunshine to cheer our dark view that we face a tremendous battle in Kentucky to elect a United States Senator.

Oddly enough, Senator and Mrs. Walter Dee Huddleston are my next-door neighbors here at Schrafft's Motor Inn in Ft. Lauderdale. I have not had the occasion to talk with Senator Huddleston since it became evident last night — Monday, that it would be a first-ballot victory for Senator George McGovern. There is no view here that anything else can happen except that Senator McGovern will be nominated on the first ballot. I had talked, a few moments ago, on Tuesday, with Governor Wendell Ford, who is not staying here at the convention hotel with us. But Governor Ford, while disappointed with the rest of us, (since Senator Muskie has withdrawn from the race), has been discussing the prospective situation at great length, with national leaders.

If a first-ballot victory for Senator McGovern is successful on Wednesday, it is conceivable that the Democrats will have a broader power base than in the past, going particularly to the twenty-five million new voters in this election... and the voter element that has given extraordinary representation to women, those under thirty, Blacks, Chicanos, Indians and others.

I have found it rather strange, that in the many caucuses that the Kentucky delegation has had with reference to voting procedures and voting decisions, that there are fewer than ten of us in this delegation who have attended more than one Democratic convention. While the new delegates are not necessarily young, they are not necessarily old; this is a tremendous exciting experience for them, and I share their views.

Amidst Miami's gaudy splendor and the tense drama of this convention scene, two George McGovern have taken center stage.

One is McGovern the amateur, winning support among the young, and other idealists; and the purists, of his apparent "apartness" from the old party hacks. The other is McGovern the professional, putting together such an impressive political organization that even Mayor Richard Daley, who saw the beginning of the end of his political dynasty in Chicago, express his utmost admiration for Senator George McGovern and his organization here.

And in this light I will close these remarks for today, because, as I see the death of the old order of politics, I am awfully glad that I made the effort to be here and to see the birth of a new generation of Democratic leaders... perhaps the political leaders of tomorrow.

However, this is my view from a delegate's standpoint.

From the standpoint of a journalist, this has been, perhaps, one of the most exciting times in my newspaper career. When the voting became boring and tedious I found myself wandering around the hall and the corridors, and visiting with Nancy Dickerson of NBC, and Roger Mudd and Sandy Vanocur, and all of the greats in this broadcasting and newspaper field. I had a nice long visit too, with Bess Abel, Senator Clements' daughter (who was personal secretary to Mrs. Lyndon Johnson). I was completely amused in watching, just above our delegation, David Brinkley and John Chancellor who, at about five thirty in the morning, were just as weary as we were.

And then Walter Cronkite, in his isolated CBS booth, looking over the convention hall, kept talking, and talking, and talking... and after while it became some amusement to us to look over to Walter Cronkite. He kept talking, for all of those long, long hours!

FULTON'S

Library Corner

BY LUCY DANIEL

Let's take a look at some of the new books received at the Fulton Public Library this week:

MURDER MOST ROYAL, by Jean Plaidy. The theme of this powerful novel is murder—not only the murder of one of the most fascinating personalities in English history, Anne Boleyn, but of many more of the vital and famous people who lived the dangerous days when a carelessly spoken word or one's nearness to the throne was sufficient to send a man to the block. Painted in the rich colors of the period and faithfully portraying the splendor and frankness of Tudor times, this novel is both illuminating and entertaining. It is a savage, exciting, and deeply moving story.

THE ART OF WRITING EFFECTIVE LETTERS, by Rosemary T. Fruhling. In a lively, conversational style, the author covers the gamut of letter writing—requests and acknowledgments, special replies, good-will letters, sales letters, claim and adjustment letters, credit and collection letters, job applications, and business reports. She discusses the principles of good letter writing and demonstrates how to apply these principles.

INSTANT STATUS, by Charles

Merrill Smith. "The early bird catches the worm as a rule, but the guy who comes along later may be having lobster Newberg and crepe suzettes." So says the author of this remarkable guide on how to make a banquet of not just your meals, but your whole life style. He also points out that while "everyone believes in rugged individualism, you'll do better by pleasing the boss." In this book Dr. Smith has applied himself to aid millions make the jump from nowhere to suburbia and the bliss of the executive suite. Methods of preparation—what to do, say and even feel at the most opportune moments—are carefully detailed.

WEEP AND KNOW WHY, by Elisabeth Ogilvie. It wasn't her happiest birthday, Mirabel thought. She had just lost her job—been cheated of it, really—and had broken with her beau and had every reason, she felt, to be sorry for herself. So when her aunt and uncle asked her to stay at Shallows, their house on Cape Silver, and take care of the dogs while they went off on a trip, she was delighted. In that beautiful house, at the edge of the woods by the sea. But she had hardly moved in when she realized that this wouldn't be the kind of tranquil autumn she remembered spending at Shallows as a child. Many strange things were happening.

HONOR THY FATHER, by Gay Talese. The Mafia—the most discussed, least understood subject in America—is a syndicate of approximately 5000 men belonging to twenty-four separate "families" located in major cities in every region of the United States. Since the Prohibition era, it has specialized in providing those illegal commodities which human appetites crave. In this book—packed with fascinating, intimate details and brilliant reporting and written in the style of a novel—Talese portrays the secret society as they—and he—have lived in the six years he traveled with the individuals who have so dominated the crime charts of crime-busting senators.

THE MOON'S A BALLOON, by David Niven. From the sayings of David Niven: "It makes little sense to write about the butler if Chairman Mao is sitting down to dinner." In keeping with this dictum, America's most dashing Scotsman has written one of the most amusing, self-revealing, warmhearted, and touching autobiographies in many a season. The extraordinary life and friends of debonair David, who has been in turn an athlete, a soldier, a bootlegger, an organizer of indoor pony races, and through a stroke of almost incredible fortune, a Hollywood star, come through with the enormous style, wit, and originality of the man himself.

THE WORD, by Irving Wallace. A momentous archeological discovery, the greatest of all time —and the immediate effect it has on the varied group of men and women whose lives are intimately touched and altered by it—is at the heart of Irving Wallace's magnificent and exciting new novel. To the world at large, The Word—if it is genuine—will come as a revelation, a call to revived faith and hope in an age of doubt and fear.

and around the city of Fulton enjoyed welcome respite from the intense heat of the past several weeks, residents of Hickman were eyeing only threatening skies, but nary a drop of rain. John Watts, agricultural agent for Fulton County told the News that the drought that has hit the county is the worst since the 1930's and moreover seems to be a local situation. He stated that in Mississippi, Arkansas and other adjoining states, and even in Hickman County, some rain had fallen, but that Fulton County seems hardest hit of all.

The village of Columbus, once proposed as the nation's capitol, may slip into the Mississippi River. Continuous cave-ins along the river front have followed the April flood, which completely inundated the town, and Thursday morning the largest cave-in yet recorded occurred when a section of earth, forty by sixty feet, in the upper part of the town slipped into the river.

At a regular meeting of the City Council, Tuesday night, Esq. Hagler was present and notified the members that the State would take over the State Line road from Carr Street to the overhead bridge provided it was graveled and that the county would go 50-50 with the city in getting the road in shape to take over.

This is a very important stretch of road as it connects with one of the leading highways, the new Union City and Fulton road.

Dr. H. E. Prather, of Hickman, has been elected by the Fulton County Board of Health as County Health Officer, to succeed Dr. Morrison.

John Joe Campbell, one of Fulton's most prominent and popular young businessmen will leave the business and social life of Fulton soon, and his departure for other fields of endeavor will be keenly felt, here. The enthusiastic young business leader has participated in every worthwhile project for the growth of his community and is one of the outstanding proponents of securing industry for the city.

Mr. Campbell has accepted a position as field technician for the R. R. Street Company of Chicago, one of the leading manufacturers of dry cleaning supplies in the country.

The convention delegates had the earthy flavor of "grass roots", not the smoky flavor of big-city bosses and powerful machines.

And the convention became a forum where the impassioned speech (in which one shouts, flails the air and says nothing), was accepted for the empty rhetoric that it really was. I think that some of the would-be agitators who under other circumstances have whipped up their followers, got the sobering feeling that they weren't so earth-shaking after all. This was no ordinary street crowd, but a mixture of politicians, businessmen, students and housewives who would listen to good reasoning and serious discussion, but little foolishness. I think the convention has been a good forum. It seemed more like "the people" than ever before; to the TV observer, it would seem that the decisions of this convention are the decisions of "The People".

So, win or lose this time in November, if the Democratic Party has been returned to the party of the people, it is off to a refreshing rebirth, and won't be long in proving it.

And while I am usually critical of television programming in general, the convention coverage this week was a real assist in letting the voters view the proceedings and get the "feel" of the new Democratic Party. To me it is earthy and full of potential magnetism. I think a lot of people are tired of being run by Harvard economists and computers, and corporation presidents and millionaire executives who happen to be "in" with the administration; I think a lot of people would like to get together and run the country themselves for awhile. We could certainly get rid of a lot of foolishness.

Have you noticed? Despite the fact that there is a great big fat sign hanging along side the stop light facing northbound traffic at the corner of State Line and the Martin highway, some knuckle-heads still make left turn.

Stokes Chevrolet agency over at Hickman closed their dealership July 1st, another distressing sign of the tightening economy of the times. Fulton, which now has only three dealerships, once had ten individual ones. Shortly after we came here 2 years ago, this city had individual dealerships for Ford, Mercury, Jeep, Chrysler, Dodge, Buick, Cadillac-Oldsmobile, Pontiac, International and Chevrolet!

Local liquor store proprietors may soon find themselves in the same woods as the local supermarkets, in a manner of speaking. Where a grocery supermarket finds that it now has to carry upwards of fifty or more brands of soap powders to satisfy the trade, local liquor stores this week will be expected to add upwards of twenty new brands of whiskey to their stocks to provide a rounded-out selection.

The cause of the new consternation is the distribution of the new "light" whiskies, which became legal July 1st. This type gets its name from the fact that it is lighter in color and in body — and can be aged in used barrels instead of the new ones required for bourbon.

Among the new names are White Ballon, Honey Go Lite, Free Spirit, Skylark, Red Satin, Northern Light, Royal American and White Bear.

I didn't note a "White Lightning."

The new product, says the distilling industry, is being offered to compete with Canadian whiskies, which are up 12 per cent in sales, and vodka, up 12 percent, and Scotch, up 11 percent. Domestic whisky, while still the biggest seller, is down one percent.

The Season's sad story —

Last week a farmer in this area, finding out he had more work to do than he could take care of, got in his car and headed up the highway looking for help. Meeting a fellow walking along the road, he pulled alongside.

"Say, I'm looking for somebody to plow some corn. Know anybody around who I could get?"

"Sure don't," came the reply... "and there's no use stopping at the town up ahead, either. Everybody up there's on welfare."

And just for the record, I want to mention that on July 4th and 5th, one had to sleep under at least one blanket around here; we had a real summertime cold wave... for the second time in a row. Last year on the 4th I spent the night out at the farm and needed two blankets.

Miss Sparrow Becomes Bride Of Mr. Reed In North Carolina

At seven o'clock in the evening of June 3, 1972, Miss Jean Elizabeth Sparrow became the bride of John Thomas Reed at the University Methodist Church in Chapel Hill, North Carolina.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Sparrow of Chapel Hill, North Carolina. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Seldon J. Reed of Fulton.

The Reverend Langill Watson performed the double ring ceremony while Mrs. Donald McCrickard provided the wedding music on the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a formal gown of silk organza over tulle with a long train.

The best man was the groom's father, Seldon Reed, of South Fulton, Tennessee, brother of the groom; John Lemax, Greenville, North Carolina, brother-in-law of the bride; Mike Delaney, Charlotte, North Carolina; Robert Marshall, Charlotte, North Carolina; and Randall Huxford, Phoenix, Arizona.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained with a reception at the Chapel Hill Country Club.

After their wedding trip to Florida, the couple will reside in Lexington, Kentucky, where Mr. Reed is a second year law student at the University of Kentucky.

REHEARSAL DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Seldon Reed were hosts to a dinner following the wedding rehearsal of their son, John Thomas Reed, and Miss Jean Elizabeth Sparrow on Friday evening, June 2, at the Carolina Inn in Chapel Hill, North Carolina.

A three-course dinner was served to the members of the wedding party and the out-of-town guests who assembled in the Carolina room of the Inn.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Hickman Country Club.

Those serving and assisting at the reception were: Mrs. Monroe Bellows, Mrs. George Haddad, members of The South Fulton Baptist Church, conducted the Sunday School hour.

Sundays are a much anticipated day of the week and we deeply appreciate laymen and ministers for their devotion and service.

Our volunteers are continuing to do a splendid job this summer at Haws. Their attitudes of helpfulness and friendliness have added much to the patients well being. These girls are a tremendous help during our craft sessions.

IMPROVING CONDITION
Mr. Lester Brown of 109 Jackson, Fulton, is improving at the Fulton Hospital. His room number is 130.

Notes and News From

Haws Memorial

Tuesday morning, July 11th, the Tri County Homemakers were host to our July Birthday Party.

A patriotic theme was carried out. Those hosting the July party were Mesdames Judy Wells, Betty Jackson, Linda Lawrence, Jane Pirtle, Ruth O'Neil and Karen Gunter. Those celebrating their birthdays this month are: Carrie Tucker, 3rd; Ira Raines, 11th; Etta Stevens, 17th; Ruby Linder, 24th; Cara Gilbert, 29th.

Those attending the party pledged allegiance to the flag sang "America". Afterward "Happy Birthday" was sung and the flag decorated cake presented to the honorees. Each honoree was given a yellow rose corsage and a lovely gift as refreshments were served.

Karen Gunter led the singing accompanied at the piano by Jane Pirtle. We sang "He's Got The Whole World In His Hands", "Leaning On The Everlasting Arms", "Love Lifted Me" and "When The Saints Go Marching In".

Judy Wells led in a bean guessing game with Maggie Summerville the prize winner.

We are progressing with our crafts and hope to have an interesting display ready by August 15th for the Banana Festival. Jeff Campbell, who is working at Haws, has offered his assistance with our window display. We need some background articles assembled and Jeff's in charge.

Last Sunday Rev. Lawrence, new minister of the South Fulton Methodist Church, held afternoon services for us.

There was a good group assembled to hear him and hear members of the choir sing.

Also, last Sunday Mr. Kenneth Hutchins and Mr. Sammy Haddad, members of The South Fulton Baptist Church, conducted the Sunday School hour.

Sundays are a much anticipated day of the week and we deeply appreciate laymen and ministers for their devotion and service.

Our volunteers are continuing to do a splendid job this summer at Haws. Their attitudes of helpfulness and friendliness have added much to the patients well being. These girls are a tremendous help during our craft sessions.

After having enjoyed a week long honeymoon traveling to Cumberland Lake Resort and Gatlinburg, Tennessee, the newlyweds will reside at Route 1, Crutchfield.

IMPROVING CONDITION
Mr. Lester Brown of 109 Jackson, Fulton, is improving at the Fulton Hospital. His room number is 130.

Joe, Joey and Becky Brush

(Ed's Note:) Entitled "Our New Neighbors", this picture appears in this week's FREE PRESS at Dickson, Tennessee and is provided us courtesy of editor Eri Sensing, former Kentucky newspaperman.

(Above): Joe, Joey and Becky Brush moved into their apartment on Reeves Street in Dickson six weeks ago. Joe is a burro crane operator for the L. and N. Railroad, a position he has held for three years, first in Brownsville then McKenzie now Dickson.

Joe graduated from McKenzie High School in 1968, took training in the National Guard, went to work for the railroad and then married Becky Mitchell of Fulton, Kentucky, in 1969. Becky is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vyron Mitchell of Fulton. She graduated from Fulton High School in 1969. Her interest in the Future Nurses Club led her into a year's training as a laboratory technician. She is a registered medical assistant and was working in a doctor's office in Brownsville when she met Joe. The Brushes have a nineteen-month-old son, Joey. They are Presbyterians.

Ann Landers

— Your Problems Bring Answers —

Dear Ann Landers: I was told at least 2,000 times the very thing I'm going to tell others and I didn't listen because I always believed terrible things happen to other people. Not me. I'm talking about rape.

Two weeks ago I was hitchhiking, a practice I developed three years ago as a college freshman. It made better sense than waiting for the bus—I thought. For three years I hitchhiked and never ran into trouble until a week ago Sunday when I was picked up by what appeared to be a pleasant, middle-aged fatherly type.

I had always heard that if a man tries something funny you should kick him where it will do the most good and run. Well, I didn't have a chance. This man seemed so nice and respectable. Suddenly he turned on a back road which he described as a shortcut. The next thing I knew he was dragging me out of the car, ripping off my clothes and choking me. I realized the guy was crazy and a crazy person will kill if he runs into too much resistance. I figured I'd better not fight him.

An hour later I stumbled back on the main road, in shock, my face badly bruised, but lucky to be alive. Fortunately, a police car came by and picked me up.

I've made an appointment with a psychiatrist so I can talk out my horror story and get rid of that man's face, those woods, and day.

One final word to every girl who reads this: If you are assaulted as I was, report it at once to the police. They will try to find the man and put him where he belongs, away from society. Rapists are sick people and they need help. I had heard that the police get their kicks from listening to the lewd detailed and never ran into trouble until a week ago Sunday when I was picked up by what appeared to be a pleasant, middle-aged fatherly type.

ten. Thanks.---Learned From Experience

Dear Learned: Here it is and my thanks for writing it. The first moral of this story, girls, is DON'T ACCEPT RIDES WITH STRANGERS.

Dear Ann Landers: May I share something that came to me after several years of thinking and re-thinking concepts of love, sex, and why certain people seem to gravitate toward each other?

It's a fact that older men prefer younger women, perhaps to reassure themselves (and others) that they are still attractive and that age has not done them too much violence.

Another well known fact: Young men prefer older women. It's a relief to be free of the strain of the empty-headed and egocentric chick on the make.

Older women are less demanding and more understanding. Younger men respond to their warmth and maturity with gratitude. Strange as it may seem, I am NOT referring to sex exclusively, but to business relationships as well. I take a dim view of the theory that younger men like older women because they don't swell, they don't tell, and they are grateful as hell. Let's face it, older women are just nicer to be with.---Over Forty and Relaxed

Dear Over Forty: The reader mail, as a result of that column, made it abundantly clear that plenty of women told, yelled, and swelled after forty. Thanks for writing.

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference." Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 35¢ in coin to this newspaper.

Two wheels are better . . .

Or so members of the Bluegrass Wheelmen Bicycle Club will tell you. Once considered fun for youngsters only, bicycling is enjoyed nowadays by more and more grown-up Kentuckians as an ideal light exercise and a chance to escape freeway traffic for a leisurely view of the countryside. Today's bicycling craze is the third to sweep the country in the past century.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud McNeil and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Williams enjoyed a fish dinner at Kentucky Lake the 4th. Then they drove by Paducah to visit with the L. J. Williams family. Their little grandson, Mike Austin, had just returned home from Louisville Hospital where they removed two tumors from inside his head. Mike lost one eye and part of the sight in the other.

Mr. Elmer Cannon has been quite ill the past week and was carried to Paris, Tennessee on Sunday afternoon to the hospital there. All the children were at his bedside Sunday except Mrs. Gean Varidy of Lincoln Park, Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Williams visited Mr. and Mrs. Dean Terrill a while Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Norman Terrill was home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Terrill over the 4th and to be near his mother through her illness.

Mr. Chester Bennett is home after being in the hospital several weeks. We visited with him a while Sunday evening and we are glad to report he is better.

The Dalton Store was sold to Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Nevil who took charge of the store last week. The store will be operated by the family. We wish this family much luck in their new business. The Daltons will be missed there as they have operated this store for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Rowland, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Gwinn, Mrs. Thelma Puckett and Mr. Virgil Rowland visited with Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Williams and family the afternoon of the 4th.

I don't think I have ever seen anything grow like our garden since that good rain we had last week and I hear others say their gardens and crops have really come out since the rain which was badly needed.

Misses Susie and Debbie Rozzel are away to camp for this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud McNeil and their daughter, Mrs. Sue Thornbro of Warren, Michigan, were at Reelfoot Lake for Mrs. Thornbro's birthday dinner Saturday afternoon. It seems Mrs. Thornbro enjoys the fish at Reelfoot and always tries to eat there once while she is home each year. They also visited with us on their way home.

We are glad to report Mr. Paul Howard is home after spending several days in the Veterans Hospital in Memphis.

The South Fulton pastor, Brother Stow, is holding a revival in the lot back of the Newell Grocery this week. There was a large crowd attended Sunday nights services.

The End of the Deluge—by Brioni—Interpreting Noah's safe conduct of the Ark and its Members.

Confidence

THE dove was sent into the Heavens from Noah's Ark and before many hours, returned bearing an olive branch from Mount Arrarat. Noah had safely brought his disciples unto a new land where all was plentiful, and where their progeny might thrive. Great are the teachings of the Bible—and Holy is the Church in which we learn its gospel. No greater gift could God have given unto man!

USO Fund-Raising Drive Is Begun; Kephart Urges Support

The 1972 USO Campaign is now under way in Fulton County. Roger Kephart, Fulton County USO Chairman, has asked that all residents of the county respond to this campaign. Each home in Fulton County should have received a letter and brochure from USO by July 15.

What is USO? USO (United Service Organizations, Inc.) is a voluntary expression of the continuing concern of the American people for those serving the armed forces. It is non-denominational; representative of the three great faiths; non-partisan, non-military and civilian-controlled. USO's only purpose is the furtherance of the welfare and morale of our men and women in uniform, wherever they may be sent, at home or overseas.

USO receives no money from the government. USO relies entirely upon YOUR support through the local USO campaign. USO is in the business of remembering—that is why there are 124 clubs in the continental U.S. and 60 points overseas. That is why there are 140,385 volunteers assisting the small USO professional staff to provide hospitality for those who otherwise might have been forgotten.

REMEMBER—there is no USO—unless YOU help. Send contributions to Roger Kephart, Fulton County USO Chairman, 2% Postmaster, Fulton, Kentucky 42041.

Temporary Sales Require Tax Payments

James Cash, Kentucky Department of Revenue district manager, has reported that residents conducting garage sales, yard sales, flea markets and other such temporary or one-time selling activities are required by law to report and pay the Kentucky sales tax.

Cash also said the public sale of tickets by civic, charitable and religious groups for chili suppers, ham breakfasts, pancake breakfasts and similar functions open to the public also are taxable sales under Kentucky law.

Persons conducting or sponsoring such activities should first obtain a temporary sales tax permit from the Department of Revenue office, 418 S. 6th Street, Cash said. The telephone number is 442-6143.

Cash said Department of Revenue personnel will be visiting sites of many sales to answer questions and provide taxpayer assistance where required. He added that penalties are provided by law for failure to comply.

Fulton County 4-H'ers Enjoy Camp Week

Some 20 young 4-H'ers from Fulton County are enjoying a week of fun and sun at the West Kentucky 4-H Camp at Dawson Springs, Kentucky. The youngsters will be participating in boating, swimming, basketball, baseball, horseshoes and volleyball. Just to mention a few activities.

A warm welcome is extended to any youngster in the county to join 4-H and become a part of the program. If you are interested in being a 4-H member, or if you are an adult and would like to be a 4-H leader, you are asked to contact Dave Hornback, County Extension Agent for 4-H, Post Office Building, Hickman, Kentucky 42050.

Fire Destroys LeCornu Home

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan LeCornu of the Chapel Hill community was completely destroyed by fire last Friday at approximately 4:30 p.m. Mrs. LeCornu and their two small sons, ages 4 and 7, were at home at the time of the fire. Mrs. LeCornu called the South Fulton Fire Department who came to their aid. However, the home was almost completely destroyed by the time they arrived. The fire began in a bedroom near the house fuse box.

Banana Cooks Are Urged To Enter Bake-Off

How many ways can you cook bananas?

The answer to this question is being sought by the promoters of the tenth annual International Banana Festival to be held in the twin cities of Fulton, Kentucky and South Fulton, Tennessee from August 17, 18 and 19 when a giant BANANA BAKE-OFF will be held on August 17.

Cash prizes and ribbons will be awarded to the cooks who enter recipes in the contest containing bananas in some form or fashion.

The categories of bread, cakes, pies, cookies, and miscellaneous banana dishes will have individual winners who will receive cash prizes and ribbons.

The Grand Champion of the Bake-Off will receive a cash award of $20.00 and a Grand Champion Blue Ribbon. Ten dollars and a red ribbon will be presented to the first runner-up. The second runner-up will receive $7.50. The Grand Champion category is composed of winners in each of the five divisions.

A cash prize of five dollars and a blue ribbon will be awarded to the winner in each category; second prize will be three dollars and a red ribbon. The third place winner will receive a white ribbon.

Following the presentation of awards on Thursday, August 17, at 3 p.m., refreshments of banana goodies will be served at the church from 3 to 5 p.m. Entry blanks may be obtained by writing INTERNATIONAL BANANA FESTIVAL, Box 428, Fulton, Kentucky 42041, and must be returned by August 10.

State Fair Schedules Top Talent Line-Up

The signing of Lawrence Welk, Jackson Five, Black Sabbath, and Sonny Simmons' Gospel Singing Spectacular has just about completed the line-up of paid entertainment for the Kentucky State Fair, said Board President Wyndall Smith.

The announcement was made at the monthly meeting of the Fair Board recently. The shows were added to the previously announced signings of Loretta Lynn and Conway Twitty, Chet Atkins-Boots, Randolph-Floyd Cramer Festival of Music, Kreiskin, and Lynn Anderson in the Championship Rodeo.

Welk has been on prime time TV since the 1950's, including 16

Fulton County Officers Honor McClellan

The Central Office staff of Fulton County Schools and their husbands and wives honored Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McClellan with a surprise retirement dinner at Boyette's Restaurant at Reelfoot Lake Friday night, June 23.

After a delicious dinner of ham and fish, the group adjourned to the home of Superintendent Harold Garrison in Hickman, and presented McClellan with several "gag" gifts, which included a yo-yo, a woodpecker decision-maker, a certificate naming him as a "cotton pickin' retiree", a super-sized cigar as well as other humorous items.

McClellan, who has been Supervisor of Instruction in the Fulton County School System for the past fifteen years, opened each gift with his usual good humor and with his great wit, thanked each individual for his choice of gifts.

The event, which honored him in his forthcoming retirement on June 30, was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Garrison, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Davis, Mr. and Mrs. John Watts, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Buge, Mr. and Mrs. Don Henry, Mrs. Jack Austin, and Mrs. and Mrs. Charles Terrett.

Fulton Teacher Attends MSU Workshop

Mrs. Lou Ellen Jamison of Fulton Route 6, a teacher in the Fulton County school system, was one of 61 participants from nine states enrolled in the fourth annual Jesse Stuart Creative Writing Workshop at Murray State University last week.

Directed by the noted Kentucky author and poet, the workshop is designed to foster and encourage creative writing by affording students close working relationship with professional writers. Three other faculty members include: Mrs. Harriette Simpson Arnow of Ann Arbor, Michigan, Kentucky-born novelist and historian; poet Lee Pennington, an instructor at Jefferson Community College in Louisville; and Dr. L. J. Horton, director of journalism at Murray State.

Students are studying four writing forms--short story, novel, poetry and articles--during the workshop.

Festival To Feature Annual Arts And Crafts Contests

You say you only paint or do creative stitchery "... for the fun of it"? If you do, you are urged to enter your work in the 1972 Area Arts and Crafts Show -- "for the fun of it!" The annual art and craft exhibit is a feature of the tenth annual International Banana Festival that is a fun-filled extravaganza in the twin city area of Fulton, Kentucky--South Fulton, Tennessee from August 17 through August 19.

The top three entries in both divisions--arts and crafts--will receive cash prizes of $15, $10, and $5 respectively. In the art division, entries may be exhibited on the amateur or professional level. All work must be original and framed suitable for hanging. The two classes in this division are (1) Oil and Acrylics and (2) Water Color, Pastels, Pen and Ink.

In the creative stitchery division, amateur and professional work will be accepted; however, awards will only be given in the amateur class. All exhibitors in both divisions must bring entries to the Art Guild Room, lower floor of the Fulton Library, between the hours of 2 p.m. and 5 p.m. on Sunday, August 13, with their two dollar entry fees and completed entry blanks.

Entry blanks may be obtained by writing Mrs. Christine Batts, International Banana Festival, P. O. Box 428, Fulton, Kentucky 42041.

Exhibitors in the Fulton Art Guild and Woman's Club sponsored event may pick up their works on Saturday, August 19, between 4 p.m. and 6 p.m., according to the Show's chairman, Mrs. Jack Allen.

Marta Moon Wins State Scholarship

Marta Shea Moon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moon of Fulton, Kentucky, is the 1972 recipient of the Kentucky Aberdeen Angus Auxiliary Scholarship, Tom Widdle, of Central, Kentucky, is the boy recipient of the Kentucky Angus Auxiliary Scholarship.

Each received scholarships through an application concerning school, church, community activities and a biography concerning his life with Angus cattle. Marta's and Tom's application will be sent on for National competition, where six top young men and women will be selected for scholarships. These will be announced during the National Angus Futurity held in Lexington, Kentucky in August.

Plaza Move In Frankfort

FRANKFORT, Ky.— State offices are now moving to the office tower in Frankfort's new Capital Plaza on a fairly rigid schedule.

William S. Coleman, executive officer of the Capital Plaza Authority, said the movers were working "round the clock" in three shifts to get everyone settled as quickly as possible.

After a number of delays, caused by everything from labor strife to a malfunctioning air conditioning system, state agencies began moving in earnest into the 28-story tower on June 1.

The Commission on Aging, Council on Public Higher Education and Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission were the first to move in, and at least one agency a day is scheduled to move for the next several weeks.

Coleman said those agencies working out of leased buildings will be the first to move. He added that all agencies will keep their old telephone numbers.

The new office tower will eventually house 1100 state workers. Officials hope to achieve total occupancy by this fall.

At present, 10 floors in the tower are completed and fully furnished. Construction on the remaining floors should be finished this summer and occupancy will proceed on a floor-by-floor basis as work is completed.

The tower's new occupants will be faced with a few minor inconveniences for a while. Much of the underground parking area is not yet ready and the cafeteria will not be operational until the first of August.

The move is the biggest for government personnel in the capital since 1941, when the State Office Building on the old State Reformatory grounds was opened for business.

Kentucky Incomes Are Rising Faster Than National Average

FRANKFORT, Ky.— With the country in an economic upswing, "Kentucky personal income will continue to rise at a slightly faster pace than in the nation" during 1972, according to the University of Kentucky's Dean of Business and Economics.

Dr. Charles F. Haywood added that "as the population growth will be slower in Kentucky than in the nation, further relative improvement in Kentucky's per capita personal income is implied. Our 1973 projection is that per capita personal income in Kentucky will be $3880, which will be 80.6 per cent of the national average."

Speaking at the state Commerce Department's recent Industrial Development Institute, Haywood estimated that total civilian employment in Kentucky during 1972 will be "about 35 per cent above 1971—a gain of roughly 40,000 jobs. The gain in 1973 is projected to be about the same."

"The unemployment ratio (in Kentucky) is projected at 5.3 per cent for 1972 and 4.4 per cent for 1973, slightly more favorable than the U.S. average," he added.

Dr. Haywood said national industrial production has been rising at an annual rate of seven per cent since August, 1971, while employment has expanded at a rate of about 3.5 per cent per annum. National income has grown at an annual rate close to 10 per cent, he added.

However, he noted that unemployment has shown only modest improvement, dropping from 6 per cent to 5.5 per cent.

"The single most comprehensive measure we have of the economy's performance," he said, "is the Gross National Product (GNP)—the total of spending by households, businesses and governments on goods and services."

In 1971 the GNP was $1,047 billion, a 7.5 per cent gain over 1970. The projected GNP for 1972 is $1,149 billion, a $102 billion or 9.8 per cent increase over 1971.

Haywood attributed the anticipated GNP increase to $52 billion in personal consumption expenditures, $25 billion in federal, state and local government purchases of goods and services and $25 billion from expansion in gross private domestic investment—housing, plant and equipment expenditures, and inventory building.

A $115 billion increase in the GNP is foreseen for 1973, with a projected $68 billion for consumption spending, $22 billion in government purchases, $24 billion in gross private domestic investment and a slight gain of $1 billion in net exports.

If, as projections for 1973 suggest, there is a resurgence in consumer spending, "investment spending and government spending should be damped down," Haywood said.

He concluded that federal spending in particular should be brought under sharp restraint, as this is the key to the removal of wage and price controls and the restoration of a reasonably stable economy.

Danny Graves Completes Training

FT. POLK, LOUISIANA— Army Private Danny R. Graves, 18, son of Mrs. Carwell Neathery, Water Valley, Kentucky, recently completed nine weeks of advanced individual training at the U. S. Army Infantry Training Center, Ft. Polk, Louisiana.

He received general training as a light weapons infantryman and as a mortar and recoilless rifle crewman, in addition to specialized weapons instruction.

He also was taught the proper use of high explosives and the placement, detection and dismantling of mines.

Teamwork was emphasized while he learned to work as a member of a rifle squad, mortar squad or direct fire section. Each team member completed the training well qualified to perform other jobs in case of casualties.

All Winning Bettors Don't Cash Their Tickets

FRANKFORT, Ky. — If you picked the right win, place or show horse in the 1972 Kentucky Derby, but still haven't cashed in your ticket, you're not alone.

Churchill Downs' pari-mutuel official Kenneth Coyte says 4450 tickets were still uncashed at the close of this year's spring meeting. That figure includes only $2, $5 and $10 tickets, but not other priced tokens, such as the 23 uncashed $50 win tickets on Riva Ridge.

Derby Day is the annual peak in uncashed tickets for Churchill Downs, but the problem exists year-round at every track in Kentucky and around the nation.

Since 1944, Kentucky tracks have been keeping all money for uncashed tickets for two years and then turning it over to the state Revenue Department. The first such funds were handed over in 1946.

A total of $1,224,971.01 from uncashed pari-mutuel tickets has been passed on to the state in the past 26 years, according to Revenue officials. In its 33rd biennial report to the General Assembly this year, the Kentucky Racing Commission said $78,117 in uncashed tickets was left at the end of 1970's 221 racing days.

Although three of the state's five thoroughbred tracks reported decreases in their "contributions" in 1971, the increase from Churchill Downs and Latonia was enough for a substantial gain over the previous year.

Latonia, which reported only $6956 in 1970, had $17,926 in uncashed claims last year and Churchill Downs' amount rose from $40,324 to $43,590.

Keeneland showed a decrease of $3000 in 1971. Miles Park recorded a drop of $1430 and Ellis Park reported an $1100 decrease.

Bradley D. Nease, director of the Revenue Department's State Assessment Section, said money from uncashed tickets is held indefinitely and patrons can cash their tickets at any time. However, he said few tickets are ever cashed.

"The books show only a few holders have turned in their tickets since 1946," he said. "We haven't had a single claim since 1969."

Coyte said few of the old tickets are cashed because holders often keep them as souvenirs. The same thing can happen to the check even after a claim is paid.

"When we receive tickets to be cashed, we send the holder a picture check showing the Churchill Downs spires," he said. "Some people just want the check as a souvenir, and promise not to cash it."

Marion O'Donohue, a former Revenue employee and now pari-mutuel supervisor for the state Racing Commission, said the high number of uncashed tickets results partially from people accidentally throwing away or discarding the tickets too soon.

"After a race, bettors may throw their tickets away, only to realize later a disqualification has been made in the race," said O'Donohue. "Their horse then may be placed in the money after the disqualification, but the ticket has already been lost."

Many people, called "stoopers," make a living from such discarded tickets.

"At every track there will be a lot of people who go around and pick up tickets off the ground," said O'Donohue, whose father rode Leonatus to victory in the 1883 Kentucky Derby. "It's impossible to say how many good tickets are found this way, but the stoopers work hard at making a living off others' mistakes."

101st Airborne Now Tackling Some Needy Civilian Projects

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Bowling Green has a new park, and a home for the aged in Hopkinsville has a new roof—both compliments of the 101st Airborne Division (Airmobile).

Like many other Army divisions, the Fort Campbell-based unit has recently embarked on joint military-civilian community development projects in order to improve the Army's image and provide training for its Engineering Corps.

Col. William B. Miller, director of the 101st's Domestic Action Projects, said he has received requests for participation in such projects from communities as far away as 300 miles from the base. At present, his office is completing an average of two projects a month, he said.

Miller explained that, to receive Army assistance in a development program, a community must initiate the request and produce a written plan for the project's development. If the project will serve the entire community and if the work is within the Army's capability, it will probably be approved, he said.

He added, however, that a project would not be accepted if it would place the Engineering Corps in competition with a private building or engineering firm.

The Bowling Green project, which took four weeks to complete, involved clearing a two-acre site, doing extensive earthwork, constructing eight picnic tables on concrete pads and six benches, and building a guard rail around the parking lot.

The park, yet to be named, will be officially dedicated in the latter part of June, following paving of the parking lot and seeding of the area by the city.

Maj. Gen. J.H. Cushman, Fort Campbell Commander, explained that projects like the Bowling Green park are "designed to show the people that we are a part of the community. We're not a society apart."

Sen. Cook Addresses FFA Delegates

Senator Marlow Cook told the Future Farmers of America Friday, June 9, in Louisville that, "While we produce more food, more efficiently than any nation on this planet, there remains an incredible problem or gap between agricultural production and use."

Senator Cook referred to the increasing awareness of the existence of malnutrition and hunger in America. He gave an account of how the Nixon Administration was the first to both recognize the seriousness of this situation and to take positive action combatting the problem of malnutrition.

The Senator stated that within the past three years the School Lunch Program has increased its participation level by 4 million children to an estimated 25.2 million children in 1972. In Kentucky alone, approximately 123,000 more needy children are receiving free or reduced price lunches since 1969.

"In addition, Kentucky has developed the second largest School Breakfast Program in the Nation. Only 14,730 children were receiving school breakfasts daily in 1968 but an estimated 102,486 children have participated in the program in 1972," he said.

He noted federal assistance to Kentucky for day care feeding, and summer feeding programs have increased from $12,273 to $602,000 within a three-year span.

Cook concluded, "... These programs are important because they will hopefully establish the proper eating habits for millions of additional Americans."

Lithuanian Papers Fold

NEW YORK—In 1930 there were 40 Lithuanian-language newspapers published in the United States. Now there are only 14.

New Center Nearly Ready

Animals shown and sold at the Obion County Fair this fall will occupy the fair association's newest building—the Obion County Livestock Center, now in the completion stages on the grounds.

The 20,000 square foot structure, which is shaped like an X, is to be completed this week and will not only be used for fair shows and sales but will be made available to residents and associations for a number of pure bred shows and sales to help promote the livestock industry of the county.

Contractor for the $40,000 structure is the Blakemore & Ellison Firm of Union City.

The free-span steel structure is located south of the fair exhibit building.

At fair time, the structure will accommodate dairy and beef cattle in the two wings while hogs will be located on a concrete floor in the rear section.

The center, front section of the building will house a show and sale arena with seating capacity for 500 persons. All livestock will be housed in the new building during the fair.

At the rear of the building is a 10 by 66 foot concrete wash area for livestock, with one section for hogs and the other for cattle.

Special removable gates will be located in the hog area.

Most of the structure will have open sides and a dirt floor. Construction is expected to be completed Thursday when work will begin on installing lights and water and erecting the pens.

The structure is being built through a special grant from the Obion County Quarterly Court.

The addition of the livestock center gives the local fair some of the finest facilities of a county fair in the state. Only last year the local fair captured the State Sweepstakes Award as the outstanding county fair in Tennessee.

Fine Print

"The large print giveth, and the small print taketh away."

That old joke about insurance policies has often had a good deal of truth in it. Many a crucial clause has been tucked away in typographical obscurity.

But in recent years, the size (sometimes even the color) of the print in insurance policies has been widely regulated by statute.

For example, a common requirement in the field of health insurance is that the exceptions must be printed at least as plainly as the benefits. Take this case:

A man disabled by rheumatism tried to collect on an insurance policy that promised, in large lettering, to pay benefits for six months. But down in the fine print, the policy cut the payments to only one month for certain diseases — including rheumatism. Was the man bound by the one-month limitation? A court decided that he was not. Because of the substandard size of the print, said the court, that part of the policy simply had no legal effect.

Even if the print is large enough, it will ordinarily not carry as much weight as language that is typewritten or handwritten into the policy.

Another case involved a life insurance policy in which the words "Double Indemnity For Fatal Accidents" had been inserted by typewriter.

Later, double indemnity was held to be payable, even though there was conflicting language in the printed portion of the policy. The court said that words specially inserted were more likely to be correct than words buried in a standard form.

Of course, anything that clarifies an insurance policy also puts a greater responsibility upon you as the policyholder. The clearer the policy, the less grounds you have for arguing that you did not understand what kind of protection you were getting.

Accordingly, it makes good sense to examine a policy at the time you buy it, rather than waiting until you have suffered a loss. Not even large print, not even a special notation, can tell you anything unless you read it.

Clearance

We must make room for our new Magnavox models! Enjoy tremendous savings on a variety of our Magnavox floor samples, demonstrators and prior models (Color TV . . . Stereo . . . Portables . . . Radios . . . Tape Recorders . . . and Component Systems) — some in original factory-sealed cartons!

Here, truly is color TV that is as magnificent off as it is on! Beautiful breakfront styling (with decorative doors concealing front controls) to enhance your home . . . and advanced Magnavox features to bring you superb viewing. TAC is a complete electronic system that lets you kick the TV tuning habit by auto-matically keeping flesh tones natural and pictures sharp. No more jumping up to adjust controls . . . and no more green or purple faces. The Matrix Picture Tube has a black substance surrounding each color dot—resulting in better picture contrast, brighter and sharper pictures. And, the Magna-Power Chassis uses predominantly solid-state components for improved performance and greater reliability. See these Color TV values today!
